The Cuban Revolution (1959-2009)

Relations with Spain, the European Union, and the United States

Joaquín Roy

JOAQUÍN ROY is Jean Monnet Professor and Director of the European Union Center at the University of Miami, USA.

Fifty years after the triumph of the Cuban Revolution and the establishment of a Marxist-Leninist regime in Cuba, the two fundamental dimensions of this historical phenomenon are the survival of the system created by Fidel Castro and the policy of the United States to terminate it. Less known is the relationship of Cuba with other international actors. Most especially there is a certain vacuum in the literature dedicated to the link between Cuba and Europe and most specifically with some prominent European states, Spain in the lead. And the same time, even less studied, is the connection with the collective body known as the European Union (UE). This book reflects on this fascinating quadrangular relationship in the eve of the 50th anniversary of the Cuban Revolution.

Contents:

Spain and Cuba: A Very Special Relationship

Washington, Havana, Brussels: Collateral Damage of a New Monroe Doctrine

Brussels and Cuba: Persuasion and Frustration

Post-Franco Spain and Castro: A Bipartisan Democracy Deals with a Marxist Regime

Waiting for Fidel and Raúl: Resignation and Expectation

Conclusion: Dilemmas and Options
