EU-US: Contemporary and Future Perspectives of Transatlantic Relations

A Panel Discussion with Representatives from the European Union

Thursday, Dec. 5, 2019 | 11:00 a.m.—12:30 p.m. | FIU MMC—SIPA 220
11200 SW 8th Street—Miami, FL 33199

Join representatives from the European Union for an engaging panel discussion with members of the EU Working Group on Transatlantic Relations (COTRA).

The COTRA delegation, a high-level group of diplomats representing the EU Member States, looks forward to engaging with students on a range of topics, from tensions over the future of NATO, the WTO and its trade dispute panel and the question of a looming transatlantic relations and security policy to economics and trade with the U.S. and Canada.

Moderator: Dr. Markus Thiel, Associate Professor, Politics & International Relations; and Director, Miami-Florida Jean Monnet Center of Excellence, FIU

This event is free and open to all FIU students, but spaces are limited in SIPA 220. You need to RSVP.

RSVP by Dec. 3rd to Christine I. Caly-Sanchez at calyc@fiu.edu
