

Miami-Florida European Union Center of Excellence

School of International and Public Affairs

Immigration and the Radical Right in Europe

Lecture by Erica Edwards, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Thursday, March 20, 2014 | 9:30 AM | FIU Modesto A. Maidique Campus | PC 428

Erica Edwards is the Executive Director of the Center for European Studies, the European Union Center of Excellence, and the TransAtlantic Masters Program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is also an Adjunct Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science. She received her PhD from the Department of Political Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Prior to joining the Center for European Studies at UNC, she was an Assistant Professor at the Institute for Advanced Studies in Vienna, Austria, and a Postdoctoral Fellow in Multilevel Governance in the Political Science Department at the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam in the Netherlands. She received her MA from the Collège d'Europe in Bruges, Belgium, where she was a Fulbright Scholar, and her BA from the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. Her main research and teaching interests are in the fields of comparative politics, political parties and party systems, governance and politics of the European Union, public opinion, the rise in Euroskepticism, extremist parties, and comparative welfare states. She is also a principal investigator for the Chapel Hill Expert Survey (CHES), which measures political party positions on a variety of policy-specific issues in the European Union.

Co-sponsored by the Miami-Florida European Union Center of Excellence, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill Center for European Studies, Politics & International Relations, FIU

Please RSVP by March 14th to calyc@fiu.edu

THE UNIVERSITY of NORTH CAROLINA
at CHAPEL HILL