Senior Fellow in the Vaclav Havel Program for Human Rights and Diplomacy

Steven J. Green School of International and Public Affairs

Florida International University

David J. Kramer is the Director of the European and Eurasian Studies Program at Florida International University's Steven J. Green School of International and Public Affairs; and Senior Fellow in the Vaclav Havel Program for Human Rights and Diplomacy.

Mr. Kramer has extensive experience in European and Eurasian matters from his time working in the U.S. government, the NGO world and at various think tanks.

He joined Florida International University's Steven J. Green School of International and Public Affairs as a Senior Fellow in the Vaclav Havel Program for Human Rights and Diplomacy in May 2017.

Before moving to Miami, Mr. Kramer worked in Washington, DC for 24 years, most recently with the McCain Institute for International Leadership as Senior Director for Human Rights and Democracy. Previously, he served as President of Freedom House. Prior to that, he was a Senior Transatlantic Fellow at the German Marshall Fund of the United States. He also was an Adjunct Professor for two years at George Washington University where he taught a Colloquium on Europe and Eurasia.

Mr. Kramer served eight years in the U.S. Department of State during the administration of President George W. Bush, including as Assistant Secretary of State for Democracy, Human Rights, and Labor, and as Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for European and Eurasian Affairs (responsible for Russia, Ukraine, Moldova and Belarus affairs as well as regional non-proliferation issues). He is author of the recent book, Back to Containment: Dealing with Putin's Regime.

A native of Massachusetts, Kramer received his M.A. in Soviet studies from Harvard University and his B.A. in Soviet Studies and Political Science from Tufts University.
