This presentation will examine why and how the EU created a policy focusing on antisemitism and some of the policy tools the EU possesses to address it. We will explore specific policies such as the EU's strategy to combat antisemitism and foster Jewish life, as well as other mechanisms not explicitly addressing antisemitism that nonetheless may be utilized to address it.

GUEST SPEAKER

Carolyn M. Dudek, Ph.D. is Professor and Chair of the Department of Political Science and Director of European Studies at Hofstra University in New York. She received her Master and Ph.D. at the University of Pittsburgh. She has written extensively on the EU across various policy sectors. Her current work is focused on EU antidiscrimination policy with a particular focus on antisemitism. She is currently the grant writer and coordinator for an ERASMUS+ Jean Monnet Module at Hofstra University, which is focused on EU anti-discrimination and hate crime policy, and she was recently awarded a Jean Monnet Chair to further her research. She is currently writing a monograph about the EU's antisemitism policy.
